What's a nearly unquestioned path to success, in entrepreneur that is most's opinions? The power to hustle. Few people have been able to illustrate that truth as dramatically as the real life story of Logic, an individual who applied his hustle everywhere from the roads, to success in company with exactly the same amount of extreme accomplishment. Recently, the company 9Logic announced the release of Logic's book "Mustle" detailing his exciting real-life adventures as he used his "I must hustle" philosophy to win a life of abundance.

"I did so exactly what lots of people only dream of," commented Logic. "By establishing a stream of income within the underground economy attempting to sell bootleg sneakers; it was unreal! Along with it came run ins with police, robberies and even a legal fight with one of the largest apparel companies on the planet. I would like this book to motivate readers to generate their income that is own and above all adversity to ensure success."

According to 9Logic, the book reveals the inside secrets of just how he, in order to survive as a single father, discovered how exactly to purchase quality "bootleg" reproduction sneakers from China and offer them out from the trunk of his car. Captured in this story isn't just a street that is exciting, but an eye starting series of business lessons which not merely connect with the street hustle, but also the business world where Logic himself is making breakthroughs today. To state interest in story like this is high, is quite the understatement.

"Mustle" is available at Amazon.com in both Kindle and paperback editions.
